

WOMEN'S HEALTH ISSUES

Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, calls on the medical community to focus more attention on female-oriented diseases.

Medical research efforts in the U.S. have centered primarily on male-oriented diseases. The population that has been examined for data has been male.

We, therefore, applaud Dr. Bernadine P. Healy, M.D., Director, National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, MD, for her courageous agenda, which promises equal attention will be given to women's health issues.