A PRESENTATION AND Q&A WITH LAURA ROSENZWEIG

Based on recently released documents, "Hollywood's Spies" (New York University Press, 2017) recovers the true and untold story of how the Jewish executives of the motion picture in the 1930s paid private investigators to infiltrate Nazi groups operating in Los Angeles. Why? Because during the 1930s Germany conducted a secret propaganda campaign in this country to transplant Nazism to the United States, inciting the most antisemitic period in U.S. history. For seven years, Hollywood's spies risked their personal safety and sacrificed their financial security to monitor and report on Nazi efforts to bring "the Hitler Revolution" to the United States. Join us to learn how the politics of the 1930s kept anti-Nazi themes off the screen...and how the Jews of Hollywood fought back.

Laura Rosenzweig is an American Jewish historian. She has taught American Jewish history at both UC Santa Cruz and San Francisco State University. Laura has lived in Palo Alto, CA with her husband, Cary, for over 35 years. She currently works for the University of California Office of the President .
