The Butterfly Project is a grass roots arts and education initiative that memorializes the 1.5 million children killed in the Holocaust through global displays of ceramic butterflies—one butterfly painted for each child.

The Butterfly Project's messages of hope and healing are woven together with Holocaust survivors' courageous stories. The moving account of survival and a lesson in the healing power of art working is magic. The Butterfly Project is now a global memorial with over 200 communities, including Canada, Mexico, Israel, Australia, France, Czech Republic, Cuba, Morocco and Poland.
